At the company's headquarters in Bergische Land, Gira, a manufacturer of installation systems, has built a new customer centre. Around 40 employees provide advice here to customers and architects in an wall-less but acoustically sophisticated open-space atmosphere.

The invitation bench system and the black dot office swivel chairs are used for workplaces. A special feature of the chairs and the privacy and acoustic elements is the corn-yellow covering material. Rolling containers also have an upholstered seat. Photos: © Gira

The base of the lamps was directly integrated in the desk tops. This means that, if the furniture layout is reconfigured, additional wiring work can be avoided.

The activation storage space system also acts as a room divider.
